NILES STREET PAVING UNDER WAY

Engineer Estimates Month's Time To Complete Project

The paving of Main street, Niles, will be completed in one week. This report was given out by W. A. Rice, resident engineer in charge of construction.

The street is being paved from the subway at the northern end of Niles to Alameda Creek bridge, the southeastern outskirts of the city. Width of cement will be thirty feet when completed, and the unpaved portions on each side will be leveled and filled to correspond.

The header boards for the puring of the cement are in place, and the work will begin today in earnest. A crew of fifty men are employed, and a great array of labor-saving machinery is lined up along the main thoroughfare of the town to facilitate the early completion of this highway project. An Ord finishing machine for the final cement work is used by the Hanrahan Company, contractors, and this mechanical contrivance makes it possible to work faster and obtain more satisfactory results. A power rake used in place of the former hand rakes is another of the more modern mechanical devices in operation here. The street bed was leveled and smoothed wth three steam rollers. Mr. Rice says that nnnnnnnnnt will it will require a month's time to finish the shoulders and complete the work in every detail.

Rice also wishes to call attention to the custom of parking cars along the street where the work in under way. The habit is delaying operations as the men very often are forced to stop the machinery and work because the right-of-way is obstructed. The engineers are very anxious, he said, not to inconvenience anyone or interfere with the free movement of cars on the street, but requests, that when possible motorists park their cars on the side streets until the work is finished.

The Register urges the cooperation of everyone with the construction crew that work may be speeded up, the early opening of the street being of considerable commerical value to the community.

This project is but one of many others now under way or recently completed in Niles. Unquestionably the city is beginning to take its place 'in the sun." The wheels of progress are turning, and this city's outlook is extremely bright.

TOWNSHIP COUNTRY CLUB MEETING ON TUESDAY, MARCH 4TH

Interesting Address Given By R. Chrouch, of San Leandro

The regular meeting of the Washington Township Country Club was held Tuesday afternoon at the clubhouse, in Centerville. Mrs. W. S. Robie, president, presided. The program for the afternoon was a discussion of flowers, and a musical entertainment.

R. Chrouch, of the San Leandro Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker of the day, and his discourse dealt with flowers, proving very interesting and of much educational value.

"We have had flowers and gardens since 'Jehovah' made man and woman and placed them in a garden," said Chrouch.

Chrouch also spoke of the great advantage Alameda county had over other counties in raisinf flowers. Over 2,600 carloads of flowers, shrubs and bulbs for planting leave this county each year for different parts of the United States and Europe. There is an appropriate saying that expresses great thought and is as follows:

"Flowers and gardens make homes;
which will it be, a city of Houses or a city of homes?"

J. Kimber, music instructor at Washington Union High school, rendered two very beautiful selections on the piano. They were compositions by Beethoven, and were enjoyed by the club members in attendance.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Robie, president, urged the members to attend the coming April meeting in full force, as a most interesting program is now planned for this occasion.

C. OF C. ENDORSES THE PLAN FOR NEW COUNTY COURT HOUSE TUESDAY

Local Body to Co-operate With Various Civic Organizations

The meeting of the Niles Chamber of Commerce was opened by L. E. Smith, president, on Tuesday, March 11, and the matter of co-operating with various other civic bodies of the county to further the movement to put the need of a new court house for Alameda county before the public was discussed. On a motion made by L. J. Duffy, seconded by H. L. Scott it was voted to endorse this movement and to co-operate with the Community Cauncil, which is composed of the various civic clubs of the county, in putting this necessity of a new court house before the public.

E. R. Vigor, of the J. A. Casson Paving Company, of Hayward, was a visitor at the meeting, and he explained in a short talk the position of his company in signing up the property owners who are to pay for the oiling of that portion of the Niles streets which will not be done by the county. Mr. Vigor asked the co-operation of all property owners in order that the oiling may be done uniformly on all the streets.

On motion made by Dr. H. E. Morrison, seconded by L. A. Vieux, it was voted that the American flag be raised immediately at the close of the meeting, and raised again thirty days hence at the close of the thirty-day period of mourning for the death of former Chief Justice Howard H. Taft. This procedure is the government regeulation concerning the raising and lowering of the flag during protracted periods of mourning, as explained by L. E. Smith, presi-

M. D. SILVA NOW CANDIDATE FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEE

M. D. Silva, well known business man of this city, has announced his candidacy for trustee for the Washington Union High school Board of Trustees.

The election of trustees will be held March 28, 1930, at the Washington Union High school, and all citizens of the township are urged to vote, as it is their duty, as well as privilege to do so.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ford Donate To Scout and Campfire Groups

The Niles Boy Scouts will take possession of the property recently donated by Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ford, on or before April 1st.

This property consists of four lots (100 feet frontage by 150 feet deep), with a four room modern house equipped with gas, water, electricity and all sewer connections, located in Niles, on Third Street, near L Street, and makes an ideal Headquarters for our local troop.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ford will deed this property outright to a Trustee, yet to be selected, for the Niles Troop of Boy Scouts. The Scouts are to pay to the Trustee not less than $100.00, annually, for a given number of years. Through Mr. and Mrs. Ford's generosity and desire to assist the Boy Scout and Campfire Girl movements in this community, these yearly sums of $100.00 are to be paid to the Trustee in Semi-annual payments of $50.00 each, and this money is th n to be made immediately available for use by the local Group of Campfire Girls and may be drawn on at the discretion of the Campfire Guardian to meet expenses of the local Campfire Girl Group.

It is felt by both Scout and Campfire officials that this donation of Mr. and Mrs. Ford, assisting as it does, both the boys, and girls, organizations, will prove to be the incentive for broader activities in both organizations.

The Scouts, now having ample space for games and other activities, are already planning to build an outdoor fireplace, install a volley ball court, and otherwise make use of the large space available, that this property may prove to be a real Headquarters for play as well as for their regular meetings. It is through this medium that the Troop Committee is looking forward to two full Troops of Boy Scouts for Niles in the near future.

In order to provide a fund to meet immediate expenses of maintainance, taxes, etc., Mr. and Mrs. William H. Ford have made an additional cash donation to the Boy Scouts of Niles, in the sum of $500.00 available for their immediate use.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

By NORMAN H. PARKS, Publisher Register

THE KING CAN DO NO WRONG

THERE IS only one thing more ludicrous than the public official who imagines he is above criticism, and that is any branch of our government, civil or judiciary, that becomes possessed of the ancient belief that "the king can do no wrong." It is the rankest manifestation of the exaggerated ego. It is the most amusing display of ignorance of the cardinal principles of democratic government, and a painful exhibit of the miscarriage of the ballot that reposed responsibility in those wholly lacking in ability to discharge a public trust.

Criticism hurts no one if it lacks merit. But if it contains truth, then the object at which it strikes may well consider calmly the error of his way and try to correct it. A little retrospection may be good for his soul, and profitable to his future success in politics.

The idea that one holding an elective office can still the public press, the pulpit, or the rostrum by blusters and threats is primitive, to say the least.

Some would rush into court, or threaten to do so, in an effort to quiet some dissenter from their pet policy of public administration.

The foundation of our government is the freedom of speech and an untrammeled press. He who would forget this and become emboldened to question the constitutional right of an American citizen to speak his conviction or write it treads on dangerous ground.

If in a fit of pique at being exposed in a mercenary political move or an incompetent action, self-anointed autocrats would abrogate these rights guaranteed by the good fathers of the revolution, who planted the seed of political and religious freedom in the new world, the attempt but draws the wrath of the people upon their heads, and the object of their hatred escapes with added power and prestige. The people are deeply interested and concerned in an individual, no matter who he may be, whose right to denounce an error in government or its execution, is assailed or questioned. The principle of the thing stirs them to action—yes, it moves them, if it is persisted in, to a fury that no clique, however powerful, has yet been able to master.

Occasionally the judiciary, which still clings desperately to the sixteenth century belief in its own infallibility and insists that the public accept this interpretation of its fitness to administer justice with fairness and honesty, is brought up with a jerk by the people who clothed it with certain restricted powers.

From the standpoint of those who wear the ermine, the judiciary has been happily free from newspaper criticism. From the viewpoint of most of us, and as it affects the intelligent, fearless, and wise control over the courts, the custom of according judges consideration not enjoyed by other servants of the people has been most unfortunate.

To assume that an ordinary mortal, by merely being elevated to a judgship, can do no wrong, commit no error, have no feeling of partiality, be immune against clever bribery, uninfluenced by friendliness for a defendant or hostile against a plaintiff, is asinine.

But judges are elected upon the presumption that, in the matter of interpreting the law and later rendering a decision, no other impulse than justice shall animate their being. They are elected over others because, supposedly, they fear nothing, are moved by no other influence than righteousness, can face God with nothing to hide from Him when passing upon the case before them, and because they are willing that their consciences in the matters of court be laid open for all men to read as open books.

If following the dictates of conscience and understanding of law means the loss of place and power, they should accept the verdict with no regret. But if, on the other hand, they attempt to hold position by stiffling public criticism, then truly can it be said, "Fools rush in where angels fear to tread."

WATER WASTE TO BE STOPPED SAYS PLEASANTON BODY

Artesian Well at Gravel Pit Remains Entirely Uncapped

Thousands of gallons of water are going to waste daily at the G. & M. gravel pit, according to the chairman of the Public Utilities committee of the Pleasanton city council, Peter Madsen. The wastage is the result of an uncapped artesian well. Steps were taken by the council of that city upon the recommendation of Councilman Madsen to procure the capping of the well.

The gravel pit has been closed for several months and the well is continuing to spout water, the huge tank into which the water flows being filled and the water is running over the sides on to the ground. This wastage of water may be seen from the Pleasanton-Livermore road, and has been commented upon by many residents of Pleasanton.

City Attorney Walter T. Nilson was instructed to take the legal steps necessary to have the well capped by the owners of the gravel pit.

Councilman Madsen pointed out that because of the continuous flowing of the artesian well, water in Pleasanton Well No. 1, has been steadily lowered until it no longer is of any great use. It was reported to him that other wells drawing water from the same strata have likewise been affected.

Dealers Urged To ---Advertise---

MORE AND better advertising was urged on furniture dealers of the west by A. L. Crane, publicity director of the San Francisco Furniture Exchange, in an address delivered at a luncheon in the Palace hotel, San Francisco, held in connection with the semi-annual market week and western furniture conference last week.

"Advertising is news, and the newspaper without ads is but half a paper" the speaker declared. "Dealers must consider their advertising as news and put themselves in the place of the reader. More and better newspaper advertising must be used to develope the potential business which may be cultivated by the proper use of newspaper advertising.

"Through proper newspaper advertising, assisted by better home furnishing weeks, better bedding and better stove weeks, furniture dealers may be an important factor in creating better home conditions for coming generations."

Crane urged the furniture men to stress newspaper advertising in preparation for "Furniture Fashion Week" with dealers throughout the west which will be observed March 6, 7 and 8.

The visiting dealers spent the day inspecting the exhibits in the furniture exchange. Later they heard an address by George S. Fowler of New York on "Merchandising Upward for Service and Profit."

CHARTER MEMBERS FOR LIONS CLUB BEING ACCEPTED

Actual Formation of Organization Anticipated Very Soon

Pleasanton's Lions club movement is progressing in a satisfactory manner, it was stated this week by those who have taken the initiative in organizing the club. Half of the required number of members needed to procure a charter from Lions International have signed the charter application.

While the movement is not being accepted by business men of Pleasanton as rapidily as is possible, it is going foward in a satisfactory manner and it is believed that within the next week or ten days the charter will be sought, the required number of persons having signed the roll.

The Lions club is essentially a young man's club, for its aims are progressive and needs in its active membership young men who are able to get out and do things. Pleasanton furnishes an ideal situation for such a club, as there isn't a business man in the community who could be termed more than "middle aged" while the greater portion are really young men.

Such a situation is ideal for with the so-called middle aged business men to give of their valued experience and the young men of the community to lend new ideas and carry out the work, there is an unlimited number of civic and municipal projects which can be accomplished for the community as a whole.

Those who have taken the initiative in attempting to bring to Pleasanton an organization which will be of benefit to all, have adopted the policy of letting the Lions club sell itself to all prospective members. Two public meetings were held and the principles of Lionism explained to those in attendance. The charter members are now asked to come of their own free will into the organization.

The charter is filed with Jerome Arendt and applications for charter membership may be made with him at the H. Arendt & Co. store on Main street, Pleasanton.

Gas
—a safe fuel for heating your home

Facts published by "The National Board of Fire Underwriters" prove that gas fuel is the safest of all fuels.

Furthermore, physicians know that gas fuel is absolutely safe when burned in MODERN, UP-TO-DATE appliances. Perhaps you recall the old portable heating appliances which were connected with a flimsy rubber hose to a gas pipe. These appliances were not vented and the results were often unpleasant. People blamed the gas fuel. As a matter of fact, the blame should really have been placed upon the poorly-designed appliances. To judge modern gas-fired equipment upon the basis of such obsolete equipment is like comparing coal oil lamps with modern electric lights.

In modern heating appliances, gas fuel burns in a steel firebox. The invisible products of combustion go outdoors through a chimney—just as smoke does from any fire. In no way can the gas escape into your home. That is why gas fuel produces healthful heat.

In addition, gas burns clean without any smoke or dirt. It is the easiest fuel to control and you can have an even, warm temperature in your home without any effort on your part.

For full details about heating equipment that burns gas fuel, see a heating contractor or phone or call at our office.

INSPECTION OF ALL MILK IS ARRANGED

Pleasanton Considers Ordinance to Assure Proper Sanitary Measures

Milk inspection moved a step nearer in Pleasanton Monday night when an ordinance providing for this action was introduced into city legislation by Councilman Thomas J. Orloff, chairman of the judiciary committee.

The ordinace calls for the creation of a milk inspector's position and outlines the rules and regulations for systematic inspection of all milk disposed of in the City of Pleasanton. This inspection will include:

Inspection of milk, dairies, creameries, pastuerizing plants, milk products, and dairy herds.

The ordinace is complete in every detail and affords residents of Pleasanton the assurance that the milk they purchase from any source within the city limits, shall conform with each and every phrase of the pure food laws, and a few ones pertinant to this community.

Penalty Fixed

Penalty for violation of the provisions of the ordinance were fixed at a fine of $300 and or 90 days in jail and or both.

Several discussions came up over the different provisions of the ordinance, causing the first reading to be held over until the next meeting of council next Monday night.

Chief among the discussions which arose was over the fees to be charged for the inspection. It was tentatively agreed upon that the charge should be one-cent per gallon. It was pointed out that should the price be placed too high it would force the smaller operator out of business.

This argument was countered with one to the effect that no producer could continue to sell milk at eleven cents per quart as in the current prices, and that an increase in the price of milk would take care of the cost of the inspection.

Pure Milk Assured

Again an argument was raised that the increase in price would mean smaller sales. The counter to this was that residents of Pleasanton would be more than willing to pay a slight increase in order to be assured that they were receiving pure wholesome milk.

The milk inspection for Pleasanton will not work a hardship upon local dealers as the ordinance requires that every dairy sending milk into Pleasanton must have a license from the city and be under the same supervision as the dairyman within the limits of th city.

The ordinance is far-reaching in its scope. It outlines the methods and sanitary conditions under which creameries, daries, and milk distributors may operate. It assures milk consumers of Pleasanton pure and wholesome milk.

PLEASANTON TO HAVE FUEL GAS IN SIXTY DAYS

Fuel gas will be available in Pleasanton within the next sixty days, representatives of the Pacific Gas & Electric Company stated this week following a survey of the situation in this district. May 1, has been set as the tentative date for the completion of the gas lines into Pleasanton, although it may be a little sooner or a trifle later.

Should the weather conditions become good and permit the steady work of the crews laying down the pipe lines toward Pleasanton, service may be turned on here before that date, but if the rains continue, it may be later, it was said.

Joe. G. Reul, representing the gas company, has been working in Pleasanton for the past few weeks making contacts with the gas consumers. He has received many applications for gas, and under the present rate it has been estimated that when gas is ready to be turned on in Pleasanton, practically seventy-five percent of the homes of the city wil be serviced.

Reul has explained the procedure of the company in connection with the service. Meters will be installed without charge, according to Reul, and the service pipe from the street to a suitable meter location within fifty feet of the property line.

"Where the meter must be located more than fifty feet from the property line," Reul stated, "a charge will be made for all footage over that distance. The fifty feet of pipe to be installed free of charge will be sufficient for practically every home in the community.

"The consumers. of course, must pay for connecting their stoves and other appliances with the meter."

Rainfall Approaches Near Normal Total

Recent storms in Pleasanton have brought the rainfall up to a point near to normal, although the rains of the past week did not average as high as the previous storms. The total for this season is now 12.22 inches. The current rains which began last Monday totaled 2.16 inches, while the total until then was 9.8 inches.

Water in the creek has reached a high point and due to the numerous small streams which feed it between Pleasanton and Sunol, it has grown quite high at the point where it starts down the Niles canyon. Due to the heavy rock walls along the highway, the water has not washed into the the road, but is very close to running over one of the low bridges.

Encinitas—Humpty Dumpty Stores will open branch grocery store on First Street between D and E. streets.

LOTS OF WATER PASSES THROUGH METERS

The number of gallons of water that are capable of passing through the water meters used by the Pleasanton Water Department appears to be unbelievable by some, according to Hugh Sinclair, city engineer.

Engineer Sinclair was moved to speak upon the subject due to the fact that many persons have complained to him that their water bills are too high and that 100,000 gallons of Water cannot flow through the meters in a month's time.

During February approximately 500,000 gallons of water was recorded as having passed through the meter at the race track. Sinclair used this as an example of what the "little meters" are capable of handling. He pointed out that a dripping faucet will leak 1,000 gallons of water or more in 24 hours.

Keep the faucets closed and in repair is the advice of the water department to those who complain about the large sums they must pay for water.

Memorial Flag Pole To Be Erected Here Soon

Official dedication of the new fire house was again indefinitely postponed by the Volunteer Fire Department, of Pleasanton, last week, following a request of the American Legion to wait until such a time as the Legion's flag pole has been erected.

It is planned to make the dedication a dual one, the fire house and flag pole to be dedicated at the same time. It is the plan of the Legion to erect a staff in memory of those boys from Pleasanton who "went west" during the big push some eleven years ago.

The flag pole will bear a plate recording the names of those from Pleasanton township who passed away overseas.

Chamber Appoints Committee To Raise School Band Fund

The weekly meeting of Centerville Chamber of Commerce was held Thursday, March 6, thirty people being present. C. H. Waterbury, chairman of the day, introduced M. Davis, of San Leandro, who gave a very interesting and entertaining address on various subjects.

E. B. Hodges, principal of the Washington Union High school, presented the matter of transporting the high school band to the state contest at Sacramento, and as a result a committee was appointed to raise Centerville's quota of $150 for the $900 fund for paying the transportation expenses. Frank Dusterberry, president of the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, offered to pay the traveling expenses of one member of the band. The chamber has voted to donate $25 from its treasury for this purpose.

Roadmaster Almaida next spoke on the situation of garbage disposal, explaining that existing conditions had been somewhat alleviated by the privilege being granted for dumping the garbage at a certain place designated on the Schillings property, near Newark.

One of the visitors at the meeting was L. E. Smith, president of the Niles Chamber of Commerce.

Professor Joseph Dias, principal of the Centerville Grammar school, was appointed chairman for the coming meeting of the chamber. Mr. Dias will have several reels of motion pictures shown, and a number of musical selections will be rendered by visiting musicians.

It is expected by F. T. Dusterberry, president of the chamber, that Charles G. Davis, manager of the San Leandro Flower Show, will address the chamber at the meeting and talk on the subject of the Alameda County flower industry.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HEAR DR. STANDLEY HUNTER ON PEACE

Dr. Stanley Hunter, of the First Episcopalian church of Oakland, spoke at the regular student assembly at the Washington Union High school Friday, and his address was on the subject of international peace. Dr. Hunter, who is a world traveler, told of the advantages of peace, and of the plans perfected for sending treasure chests of presents, similar to those sent to Mexico, to the Phillipine Islands in order to cement a more lasting friendship between the United States and these Islands.

E. B. Hodges, principal of the High school, stated that it is hoped that the students of Washington Union High school will contribute to the movement, and do their part in establishing friendlier relations. Dr. Hunter explained that it is the younger generation that is the most hopeful for world peace, and in fact doing the most for it.

Dr. Hunter, to illustrate the feeling between countries, spoke of the rescue work of the revenue cutter "Bear," which is retired from active service; now belonging to the city of Oakland, to be utilized as a museum. The Bear was in service for fifty years, and thrilling tales are related in connection with its activities, one of which was the rescue of a group of Americans stranded on the Siberian coast; word of their whereabouts was relayed by Eskimos to the cutter Bear, which immediately set out on its life-saving journey. This little story showws the co-operation between nations, and the benefit resulting from such feeling.

Freshmen Speak

Following Doctor Hunter's address, three freshmen students gave short talks appropriate for Arbor Day. The speakers and the subjects of their discourses were: Rutherford Kettman, "Arbor Day and Tree Conservation;" Barbara Laudenslager, "Trees;" and Dexter Witherly, "Luther Burbank." The student audience was greatly surprised and pleased to hear classmates speak with such excellence. Their delivery was masterful, and expression and rhetoric unusually good.

Scholarship-Initiation

At the meeting of the Scholarship Society, Friday, several new members were initiated. They were Joseph Faria and Muriel Fournier, freshmen; Keiko Koga, a sophomore, and Fern Garcia and Pauline Evulich, seniors.

Following the initiation ceremonies a gum sculpturing contest was featured, and Keiko Koga distinguished herself by turning out a most life-like appearing animal. The prize for this feat was two pieces of peanut brittle.

Federal Bank Visited

W. E. Gravestock and Miss Beatrice Taylor, history instructors at the high school, conducted a party of thirty students on a visit to the San Francisco Federal Reserve Bank last week. The trip was of great interest to the students, and they enjoyed it thoroughly, was the report.

Among the many sights of interest was $250,000,000 in gold, silver and currency; this money being kept in vaults underground and below the level of San Francisco Bay.

The students noticed that every where they went through the bank a police officer followed, or at least was in sight at all times. They also saw the chief of the staff of bank watchmen, with his feet propped up on a desk, and after staring at him for a time, during which he remained perfectly immobile, they decided he was either a man of iron nerve or absolutely dead. However, they decided that the officer was a pretty good fellow if he could remain unmoved under the combined eye power of thirty wide-awake nigh school students.

Student Wins Prize

It is generally believed at the Washington Union High school that Mitsuye Kawaguchi is just about the luckiest cook in Alameda county.

Mitsuye, who is a member of the cooking class of the high school, attended the Hayward Review Cooking School last week with a group of classmates, and Miss Ada June Roberts, domestic science instructor, and she was lucky enough to win a door prize, which consisted of five gallons of gasoline and a quart of oil. It was reported that Mitsuye was contemplating using the gasoline and oil as flavoring and shortening for her next cake.

The machinery was received from the East, and considerable floor space had to be added to make sufficient room.

The Centerville team's members distinguished themselves by their repeatedly brilliant plays, smashing through to an exciting finish.

After the games the guests were entertained with bowling, followed by a banquet, which was served by the club refreshment committee.

TWIN-IGNITION MEANS—
Greater Power, Greater Smoothness, Extraordinary Economy

BECAUSE two different motor cars are alike in price, it does not follow that they are also alike in quality, value or performance. ¶ There is always a best, and if you are looking for it, drive a Nash Twin-Ignition Eight or Six. They are the only cars in their price field which offer the superiority of Twin-Ignition performance. ¶ Twin-Ignition (two spark plugs, two simultaneous sparks, per cylinder, instead of one) produces smoother, more thorough combustion and consequently a smoother, more vigorous flow of power. You can feel the difference. You will know immediately what you have been missing, driving a car with single ignition. ¶ Other "400" features of superior performance and value are Bijur centralized chassis lubrication; lifetime-lubricated springs, encased in steel spring covers; built-in, automatic radiator shutters; and Duplate non-shatterable plate glass in all windows, doors and windshields (no extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Eight—optional at slight extra cost in the Twin-Ignition Six and Single Six).

THE WATER SITUATION IN ALAMEDA COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

Purchase of Alvarado Plant Proposed By Bond Issue

By CYRIL WILLIAMS, JR.
Engineer and Manager of
ALAMEDA COUNTY WATER DISTRICT

Interesting Diagram of Water Levels From 1913 to 1930

THE DIAGRAM shown below is a profile of the water surface in a well located about three-quarters of a mile easterly from Centerville. This well is in the area westerly from or below the so called Niles-Irvington fault, and the water levels shown on the profile are typical of those in the major portion of Alameda County Water District. The record of this well extends from July, 1913, to February, 1930.

On the diagram the heavy horizontal line crossing at about the middle of the picture represents mean sea level. The interval between each of the finer horizontal lines represents two feet in elevation. The light vertical lines represent intervals of two months each.

The line which appears in the form of waves represents the fluctuating surface of the water level in the well. It is at once noticeable that this sinuous line in the left half of the diagram is above the mean sea level line, while on the right hand side of the picture, it is far below mean sea level. The hatched area is where the water in the well sinks below sea level. The rising portion of the profile in the early part of each year is the result of percolation of water from Alameda Creek during the winter floods. Where certain small rises appear later in the season, this is due to water released from Calaveras Reservoir, which percolates in the channel of Alameda Creek. The seasonal fall which appears each year is due largely to pumping draft in the district.

Analyzing this diagram in greater detail, it will be observed that, in the Fall of 1913, the water stood one foot above sea level. In the Fall of 1929, the water stood 35 feet below sea level—a drop of 36 feet. Up to July, 1920, the well had stood above sea level, in 1916 having risen to 18 feet above this elevation. In the summer of 1920, the water in the well for the first time fell below sea level, reaching an elevation of -7.5. From 1920 to 1923, there were alternate rises above sea level and falls below this elevation until, in September, 1923, the water finally dipped below sea level never again to reach it; and in the Fall of 1929 it was depressed to -35 feet elevation. The extreme low level of the water table today with a depletion of 36 feet since 1913 has left the District in a very serious condition in regard to water supply. Not only is there a large diminution in the supply itself, but this low water condition has resulted in increased costs of pumping and has necessitated the installation of deep well pumps throughout the District where originally the ordinary low lift centrifugal pumps sufficed.

From 1913 to 1916 inclusive, the District was favored with large annual floods in Alameda Creek. Not until February, 1916, did the Spring Valley Water Company commence storing water in Calaveras Reservoir, and during those early years of large flood flows, a very large volume of this flow entered the ground as percolating waters. Furthermore, in these seasons, Alameda Creek overflowed its banks, flooding the adjacent lands and followed numerous channels through the District and towards the Bay. All of this resulted in additional percolation. Not only were the wells adjacent to the Creek benefited, but the effect was felt throughout the entire District.

Since 1917, the District has received annually a certain amount of water released from Calaveras Reservoir. This release occurs generally in May and June, and the amount so received is presumed to be equivalent to the quantity of water which the District has been deprived of by reason of the annual storage in Calaveras Reservoir, and by the extra diversion by the Water Company. Naturally, the amounts of such release vary greatly. The release has been as high as 2,155 million gallons in 1923, and in 1924 there was no release whatever because no storage was accumulated in Calaveras Reservoir, this being a year of extreme drought. In 1929, the release amounted to 962 million gallons.

While these annual artificial flows in Alameda Creek in the Summer months have helped somewhat to stimulate the water table, they have not always resulted in a far reaching effect throughout the District. The wells nearest Alameda Creek have shown substantial rises but in the outlying portions of the District towards Irvington, Newark and Alvarado, the effect, while there, has not been so noticeable.

During the periods of release which are generally in the months of May and June of each year, intensive pumping for irrigation purposes tends to destroy the effect of this release upon the wells. However, the pumping which caused the most damage and more than offsets the percolation is that at the wells of the Eastbay Water Company and the Eastbay Municipal Utility District in Alvarado.

From 1917 to 1929 inclusive, the District has received from the Spring Valley Water Company over 17,000 million gallons in the form of release and during the same period, the pumps of the Eastbay Water Company and the Utility District at Alvarado have pumped almost 30,000 million gallons or about 13,000 million gallons in excess of the released water. In other words, the entire release from Calaveras Reservoir and a large quantity of water besides was pumped out of the ground by the Eastbay Water Company and the effect of this release is thus nullified.

The extreme depression in water level since 1924, as shown on the diagram, is largely due to the pumping at Alvarado. The pumping by the Eastbay Water Company at Roberts Landing also contributed to the lowering of the water table in Alameda County Water District.

Through a compromise between the Eden Township County Water District, and the Eastbay Water Company, Roberts Landing pumps have been abandoned. When these pumps ceased operating, there was an almost immediate rise in a large number of wells in Alameda County water District. A part of the leak in Niles Cone had been stopped and the great cone of depression caused by the pumping at Roberts Landing was refilled. But the main leak or cause of damage is the pumping at Alvarado. The directors of Alameda County Water District have seized upon the opportunity of acquiring this system of wells and the District is therefore putting it up to the people of the District in the form of a bond election for the purpose of acquiring the Alvarado Wells and shutting them down completely, with the exception of what small draft may be necessary for local domestic supplies. The probable result of shutting down the pumps at Alvarado will be an immediate recovery in well levels over a large part of the District. The drain from these pumps has been at a rate as high as 8 million gallons per day, and, as before stated, over a period of years far exceeded the amount of water entering the channel of Alameda Creek during the period of release.

The acquisition of the Alvarado wells is one of the biggest moves which the District has made since its organization. The ownership of these wells by the District will mean that diversion of the underground waters at Alvarado to points outside of the Alameda County Water District by any private corporation is forever precluded.

FOUR NARROWLY MISS DEATH IN CRASH

Serious injury and possible death was narrowly escaped by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Woods and daughters, Julia and Henrietta, all of Pleasanton, Wednesday evening when their automobile was struck by a Southern Pacific passenger train at the Main street crossing.

The party of motorists was driving to the home of Samuel Keating. Woods. who was driving, failed to make the turn at the Main street crossing, according to witnesses, due to the wet condition of the highway. He was forced to drive down the tracks a short distance before he was able to stop. When attempting to back off the tracks, the wheel of the car did not have traction and spun.

Just when it appeared that the car would take itself back to the highway, a passenger train loomed up in the distance. The occupants of the car just had time to stand to one side.

The automobile, which was a new Ford sedan, was demolished beyond repair and the locomotive lost its cow-catcher in the crash.

Pleasanton Sewer Farm Offered To Highest Bidder

Use of Tract for Almost Any Purpose Will Be Permitted

Renting of the sewer farm to the highest bidder is contemplated by city council of Pleasanton following its action last week in authorizing the advertising for bids. Under the present conditions it was pointed out to council by Peter Madsen, chairman of the Public Utilities Committee, that it would be advisable to lease the property as a whole and not in two sections as it is possible to do.

Since the improvement of the sewer farm by the addition of five more acres of ground and the grading of the entire tract, it has been found that the property may be farmed at a profit. It is to give this benefit to some restdeni of Pleasanton that council decided to rent the farm.

McKINLEY PARK IMPROVENENT IS NOW UNDERWAY

Beautification of Pleasanton Playground Meets With Approval

Beautifying and improving of McKinley Park, Pleasanton, is now begun under direction of the city, with the intention of making the playground a spot to which Pleasantonians may take their friends for an afternoon's outing or picnic.

While the park is in fair shape, there is considerable to be done before it will be in such a condition that visitors will be thoroughly pleased with a visit.

Following the action of city council of that city in approving plans for the improvement of the park, city employees were set to work immediately. They are grading, sewing grass seed and planting shrubs.

Inasmuch as the park is of considerable size city officials have requested residents of Pleasanton who have any shrubs which they can donate to the cause to do so at once. Persons wishing to aid in the beautification of McKinley park by such a method have been asked to get in touch with any of the councilmen, and someone will be sent around to take care of the shrubs.

Since the action of council, several score of residents have given shrubs. Others not being in a position to do so, have offered their services. Council members expressed their public appreciation of the response and promise Pleasanton that McKinley park shall become a spot worthy of the name of playground, and that none need apologize in the future to their friends for the appearance of the park.

THE "STREET OF CHANCE" BEGINS FRIDAY AT FOX

The mystery of New York's famous "Million dollar" poker game as the films see it will be revealed on the Fox Oakland theatre screen Friday with "Street of Chance."

William Powell, regarded as one of Hollywood's most brilliant actors, is the star of this all-talking picture. "Street of Chance" presents the story no newspaper dared to print. It is based on the unsolved mystery of the Rothstein murder case. In this great Paramount production Powell plays a successful and powerful gambler, whimsical, humorous and sinister.

In the feature roles are Jean Arthur, the sauve Kay Francis and Regis Toomey.

A real "eye-dea" is Fanchon and Marco's "Eyes Idea," peppy colorful stage entertainment featuring the Six Candreva Brothers in a trumpet dance, the Sunkist Beauties in striking silver and black costumes and Hermie King and his melody gang. A back-drop of slowly nodding all-seeing eyes affords a brizarre setting for the revue.

Fair Exchange No Robbery

By LEETE STONE

JACKSON GAIGE, head of Gaige, Talmadge and Gaige, was obviously worried and flurried. Something was wrong.

To Kathleen Callahan, his secretary, he represented all that was noble, honorable and brilliant in the legal profession. She noticed her employer's sudden abstractions in the middle of dictation, watched him gaze wistfully out of the window, saw his fits of fidgeting—and she felt very sorry for him; she wished she could help unravel the tangle.

His pretty little secretary blamed Jackson Gaige for only one thing; namely, that he had recently discharged William. William was bookkeeper, cashier and purveyor of pay envelopes.

Still, Kathleen knew her worthy chief was not really the one at fault. That cat, Irene French, had done it. She wore her heart on her sleeve where William was concerned, and he made no secret of his preference for Kathleen. In spiteful retaliation Irene had carried untrue tales of William's omissions and shortcomings to the office manager, who, in turn, had at once requested the chief for permission to let the young man go.

Kathleen was sitting in her small office next to Mr. Gaige's spacious room one morning when she heard two men who had just come in talking loudly and earnestly to her chief. The two men finally left and she could hear Jackson Gaige pacing up and down his office.

At last he pressed the buzzer that summoned her, and Kathleen hurried in with her notebook. As she seated herself at the glass-topped desk, the manager stepped hastily in, excitement written in his eyes and a letter crushed in his hand.

"Here's another letter from them, Mr. Gaige. They won't wait but four days longer. If they push the case before that bill goes through, our goose is cooked. What did you tell those two chaps from the district attorney's office, who left?"

Kathleen hated the manager with Celtic fervor. He had dismissed William and now he was taking an insolent tone with her kind boss.

"You've got to fight them with their own weapons," continued the manager. "If we can't persuade Kelly to defer that case until after election; if we can't get a satisfactory interview with him—well, we must try other means. I know you're dead against a bribe; but if two or three hundred dollars slipped to Jenkins, who needs it badly, will straighten matters out . . . " He shrugged eloquently.

"I used every argument in the world with those two men," Jackson Gaige replied. "They held out against me, saying the only possible delay would be if Kelly himself postponed the case. Guess we're at the end of our rope. Kelly won't give me an interview. If he would see me I'm sure I could straighten out the whole business; but he won't. I was about to try him once more with a letter when you came in, though I'm afraid it's useless—take this, please, Miss Callahan!"

"Mr. Patrick J. Kelly,
"99 Nassau street,
"New York.
"Dear Sir—"

"Please, Mr. Gaige, I'd like to say something," said Kathleen.

The kind boss and the hated manager turned impatiently to the trim little secretary.

"If you'd like an interview with Patrick J. Kelly of 99 Nassau, I'm sure I can arrange it. You see, he is my stepfather. He'd do almost anything in the world I wanted him to do, because he's very fond of me. He's never been keen about my being in business—doesn't see why I should want to be independent when he loves to give me everything I wish—so we don't talk much about it at home. I don't suppose he even remembers where I'm working."

"Well, I'll be darned!" said the kind boss to the unkind manager.

Unique situation! Kathleen Callahan, secretary, of wondrous Irish eyes, solving a situation that had nagged the brains of men for days.

The interview was arranged for the next day.

Everything was adjusted and settled amicably, after which Jackson Gaige asked Kathleen what she would like as a token of appreciation for her valuable service.

Kathleen reminded her chief of one William, former bookkeeper, cashier and purveyor of pay envelopes. Had Mr. Gaige any direct knowledge of the slightest defection on William's part? . . . Ah, no, indeed! He had simply been told by the manager, who had been informed by Miss French that William paid too much attention to some one in the office, and neglected his work. . . . Then, if the kind boss had no objection, could not William be reinstated? . . . Well—ah, of course the manager had charge of these minor matters; but if injustice had been done, certainly he, Jackson Gaige, would see that William returned.

"Which means, I presume," Kathleen's employer patted her shoulder, a world of understanding shining in his smile, "that I shall be getting a good bookkeeper, perhaps—and losing a good secretary, surely. However, a fair exchange is no robbery—eh?"

Irish eyes looked up at him and smiled.

NEARBY and ...YONDER...

by T. T. Maxey

The Czar of Lights

THE brightest beacon which guards our coast is that in service at Navasink, N. J., which marks the entrance to New York harbor.

This czar of lights flashes from a massive stone tower, built in 1862, and located at the highest point along the Atlantic coast for hundreds of miles—north or south—the light being 246 feet above the water.

Having the power of 710,000 candles, this light is plainly visible over 1,000 square miles of water. Under normal conditions it can be seen for 26 miles, and, under unusually good atmospheric conditions, has been sighted by incoming ships 50 miles at sea.

The great lens, surprisingly beautiful and displaying every color of the rainbow, is five feet in diameter and made up of nearly 400 separate prisms, held together by copper frames and set to focus the rays of light into a single beam. It rests on a turntable which in turn rests on a bed of quicksilver weighing five tons. The lens and table weigh ten tons and are turned by a clock-like mechanism.

The light is furnished by three incandescent oil-vapor burners within the lens. Its intensity resembles a flash of sheet lightning. The flash lasts by three-fourths of a second, followed by two seconds of darkness and is so distinctive that, 'tis said, no experienced observer could mistake it for any other light. Its closeup glare is so blinding that the keepers are obliged to wear dark-smoked glasses to avoid serious eye injury.

TOWNSHIP MOTORISTS WILL SPEND ABOUT $293 EACH TO KEEP CHARIOT PERAMBULATING

Average motorists in Washington Township will spend a total of $293 on their automobiles during the current year.

This appears a rather surprising sum, but when one considers all the items included in this total, it is not so much, and as the figure was arrived at by the research department of the American Automobile Association after a nation-wide survey, there must be something nearly correct about it.

All the motorists in the nation will spend close to $8,000,000,000 during 1930 for the maintenance and operation of their cars. The total of eight billion is based on the average purchases of $293 and on the registration of approximately 26,500,000 automobiles.

Naturally the largest item of expense to the motorist will be for gas and oil, and as one can purchase almost every grade and make of gasoline and oil right in Washington township, it stands to reason that the filling stations here will do a good business in the next twelve months.

To get back to figures, it is estimated that every motorist will spend $100 for fuel and lubricants. The remainder of the $293 has been divided as follows: $83 for service and labor; $55 for replacement parts; $34 for tires; and $21 for accessories.

In 1928 car owners spent approximately $7,230,000,000 and while totals for 1929 have not been finally tabulated, the amount will exceed $7,500,000,000. Increase in both registration and travel will account for the large amount in 1930.

Business Licenses Increase Coffers Of Pleasanton

City Clerk's Report Reveals Cash Balance of $16,269.06

City business licenses to the amount of $1,205 were collected during the month of February, according to the report of the city finances by the town clerk of Pleasanton, to the city council of that city Monday evening. Other amounts collected brought the revenues of the city to $21,114.91.

Water rent accounted for the second largest portion of the collections, amounting to $684.15 from the city and $30.15 from the Spring Valley Water Company.

The clerk's report in full was as follows:

Cash balance last report as of January 31	$21,146.78
Licenses from town marshal	$1,205.00
Taxes from town marshal	8.00
Water rent	684.15
Water rent from Spring Valley	30.15
Rent from sewer Farm	5.00
Taxes	121.95
	21,114.91
	2,11.91
	$23,261.69
Less warrants for February	6,992.06
Cash balance February 28, 1930	$16,269.06

This balance is divided into the following funds:

General fund $6,558.70; Town hall bond fund $447.25; Municipal improvement bond fund $878.27; 1929 municipal improvement bond fund $1,553.39; Water bond fund $520.19: and 1929 water bond fund $545.26.

For bills arising in February, council allowed a total of $965.50 on warrants and $587.16 on resoultions. One claim of $120.50 was denied on the grounds that it was not properly presented.
